

Processed by: VJA
Date: 06/27/06

POST

POST, LANGDON

OH-461

57 pp. w/index

PRQ

(This transcript is bound in California Democrats in the Earl Warren Era)

Northern California campaign manager for James Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaign, 1950.

DESCRIPTION: Family background and childhood; running for Congress as an anti-Tammany Hall candidate; appointed as tenement house commissioner by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia; work for the Federal Emergency Relief Administration; personal observation on Harry Hopkins; housing improvements and changes in building codes; disagreements with LaGuardia; job as western regional director for the Federal Housing Authority; need for more housing in places with strong industrial pressure; public housing in California; housing following World War II; Earl Warren's opposition to state guarantees of housing authority bonds; interest in home building after the war; James Roosevelt's decision to run for governor; Post's position as campaign manager in Northern California; organization of campaign publicity; Earl Warren's avoidance of personal attacks against his opponent; support for Warren among some Democrats; endorsement by labor; financial support for Roosevelt's campaign; differences in support in the northern and southern parts of the state; campaign expenses; campaign issues; lack of Roosevelt support among some Democrats; Post's 1952 article on Earl Warren; Warren's caution and avoidance of controversy; George Outland; additional Roosevelt supporters; Helen Gahagan Douglas and Richard Nixon; running a labor newspaper; other writings.

NAME & SUBJECT INDEX.

[Earl Warren Oral History Project, Regional Oral History Office, Bancroft Library, interview by Amelia R. Fry, July 31, 1972]